SUBJECT: Reorganization of the Department of Mental Health & Substance Abuse
("DMHSA") and the Department of Integrated Services for Individuals with Disabilities ("DISID")

Pursuant to the court's request, submitted herein is a description of the reorganization process and the laws related to the reorganization of the executive branch of the government of Guam by the Governor of Guam. Also provided herewith are Attorney General Opinions regarding the Governor's authority to reorganize the executive branch based on the Organic Act and the laws of Guam.

The authority given to the Governor to reorganize the executive branch of the government of Guam is found in the Organic Act of Guam. The Organic Act requires the Governor of Guam to examine the organization of the executive branch of the government of Guam, and carry out necessary changes to promote effective management and to execute faithfully the purposes of the Organic Act and laws of Guam. 48 U.S.C. § 1422c(c).

Guam law also addresses government reorganization by establishing a process by which to implement a reorganization plan. Guam law requires a public hearing at least 30 days prior to the implementation of a reorganization plan. It also requires public notice of such hearing in a newspaper of general circulation within Guam and written notice to each employee of the department to be reorganized 14 calendar days prior to the hearing. Chapter 11 of Title 5 of the Guam Code Annotated.

Guam law allows employees the opportunity to review the proposed reorganization plan prior to the hearing. It also affords employment security to employees affected by government reorganization.

Attached to this letter are copies of the statutes relevant to government reorganization for easy reference.

The Governor will be executing the Executive Order to begin the process for the reorganization of the Department of Mental Health & Substance Abuse and the Department of Integrated Services for Individuals with Disabilities. Upon enactment of the Executive Order, a public hearing will be held as provided in the notice of hearing published and provided to affected employees within the time required by law. Upon conclusion of the hearing and consideration of any comments elicited at the hearing, the reorganization of the Department of Mental Health & Substance Abuse and the Department of Integrated Services for Individuals with Disabilities will be effectuated.

SUBJECT: Governor's and Legislature's Powers in Reorganization

Dear Senator Aguon,

On July 31st, 2003, you asked if the Governor can, by Executive Order, require the Legislature to appropriate funds to agencies that do not "officially exist". You also asked what are the specific Executive and Legislative Branch responsibilities to contribute toward permanent structural change in the Government of Guam.

The second question requires too much speculation on our part, since we know little about the proposed reorganization save the twelve cabinet departments that will be responsible for the functions of the many current separate departments and agencies. Thus, I cannot provide you with such a list.

The first question is clearer, but will not affect Executive Order 2003-24, since that Order will have no impact upon public laws by this order because it reorganizes nothing. It directs a "concerted and consolidated effort" by all to achieve a reorganization plan in accordance with the Governor's outline. Likewise, assessments are required and are to be communicated to the Governor's Reorganization Task Force. This Order accomplishes no reorganization. What can be done by the Governor and what must be legislated will be determined later, when the final plan is in place.

The reorganization power of the Governor is probably the one unique power given to the Governor under the Organic Act. Federal and state reorganizations either start with legislation or end with it. In Oklahoma, the Governor can reorganize his cabinet (but not the underlying agencies) within a certain period after election according to their constitution. But only here is the Governor not only given the power to reorganize but the direction to carry it out. Case law from other jurisdictions interpreting powers vested in the Governor alone make clear that when a constitution vests powers in the Governor, that means other branches cannot regulate that particular function.

[Organic Act] 48 U.S.C. § 1422c(c) provides:

The Governor shall, from time to time, examine the organization of the executive branch of the government of Guam, and ~~shall determine and carry out such changes therein~~ as are necessary to promote effective management and to execute faithfully the purposes of this chapter and the laws of Guam. [Emphasis added]

The leading statement on the parameters of the Governor's reorganization powers under the Organic Act is found in Laguana v. GVB, 725 F.2d 519 (CA9, 1984) at p. 520:

However, the Organic Act does not bestow on the Governor the authority to create separate agencies or instrumentalities.

The power to modify a public entity previously created by the legislature is not the same as a power to create a new entity. That necessarily remains a legislative function.

However, to say that the Legislature may freeze the Governor's ability to reorganize by creating an agency by statute, which is part of the former's powers, is to nullify one portion of the Organic Act. This cannot be done, since the Organic Act serves as our Constitution and is superior to any local law.

Back in 1958 the Department of Interior advised the then-appointed Governor on these reorganization powers. Indeed, in 1952, Carlton Skinner reorganized the Customs Divisions, taking it from one agency and putting it in another, by executive action, an "Executive Memorandum 33-52". This was because the Legislature had abolished all customs duties thus leaving the Division with no collection functions. See People v. Sugiyama, 846 F.2d 570, amended in 859 F.2d 1428 (CA9, 1988).

The 1958 DOI memorandum said that the Governor can not only reorganize the government by sending various functions from one place to the other, but, so long as appropriations can be identified with these functions, use these even though they were made to the department that is losing a function. The Governor may not change a substantive duty or function, however.

At the next budget session, the Legislature would then appropriate to the receiving agency the moneys for the personnel, equipment and functions transferred. Likewise, it should amend the law to reflect the executive changes. An example of what the Governor can do is to transfer a number of functions, along with their personnel and equipment and funding, to another agency to accomplish his consolidation, but he cannot create a new agency - only the Legislature can do that.

Subject: Reorganization - Historical Guidance

Recently I came across the attached memo from the Department of Interior regarding how the Governor (who was appointed at the time of the original memo) could reorganize the government on his own, and limits on that power. The Organic Act has not changed in this regard since, so you might find this useful.

Hon. Manuel F. L. Guerrero
Governor of Guam
Agaña, Guam

DEC 30 1965

Dear Governor Guerrero:

We enclose herewith an opinion of December 15, 1965 of the Acting Assistant Solicitor, Territories, on some of the legal questions raised by your letter of September 29, 1965. On the basis of this opinion, and with specific reference to the usual form of appropriations of the Guam Legislature for specific departments of your Government, it is clear that you cannot, in the case of lump sum appropriations, transfer functions and the funds to perform these functions from place to place, because you have not been authorized to expend any particular portion of such lump sum appropriations for any particular function, nor, following repeal of Section 6119.2, do you have general authority to transfer any portion of appropriations from one department to another.

If the Guam Legislature were to enact appropriations bills in the detailed form that frequently characterizes appropriation acts of the Virgin Islands Legislature, then, as the opinion indicates, the function and the identifiable funds for such function may be transferred from one department to another; in that event, the funds expended for a particular function still will be exactly as specified by the Legislature. Or, if an appropriation act is concerned only with a particular board or independent agency and the funds for its operation, we see no objection, in view of the Acting Assistant Solicitor's opinion, to reorganization that places the independent board or agency under the administrative supervision of another department, provided again expenditures for the operation of such independent board or agency do not exceed the appropriation authorized by the Legislature, and no part of such appropriated funds are expended for any other purpose.

To simplify further, let us outline some hypothetical transfer problems:

- (1) Department A and Department B each have received their appropriations in a lump sum. Because of the importance of programs under the jurisdiction of Department B, the Governor would like to transfer some funds from a less essential program of Department A to the more urgently needed programs of Department B. Since repeal of section 6113.2 of the Guam Code (pursuant to the holding in the Honigallo case that item veto authority may not be used to veto such repeal), the Governor has no authority to effect the transfer of funds.
- (2) Department A has received a total appropriation of $1 million to perform functions X, Y and Z, which are listed in the appropriation act by description only. The Governor proposes to transfer function Y to Department B and to authorize expenditures of $200,000 for this purpose. This also the Governor may not do, because the Legislature did not authorize expenditure of $200,000 specifically for function Y. Conceivably, such expenditure might be less than $200,000 if performed in Department A by the personnel assigned to perform functions X and Z.
- (3) The appropriation act for Department A reads as follows:
function X, 10 persons, appropriation $300,000;
function Y, 7 persons, appropriation $200,000;
function Z, 15 persons, appropriation $500,000

The Governor wishes to transfer function Y to Department B and spend $200,000 for the performance of function Y. The reorganization may be effected pursuant to section 9 (c) of the Organic Act and the seven employees thereafter will be "detailed" to Department B and supervised by the head of that Department. Their salaries and any other expenditures for the performance of their functions (supplies, equipment, travel) will be paid from funds appropriated to Department A for the performance of function Y. Since there is no authority for the transfer of appropriated funds from department to department, the disbursing officer of Department A would retain control of the funds.

Hypothetical (3) thus would permit the type of reorganization, with funds retained by the transferor agency, discussed in the last paragraph of your September 29 letter. It must be emphasized, however, that this type of reorganization becomes possible only if the original appropriation act identifies the function and the funds authorized for performance of the function in adequate detail. Inasmuch as the single item form of Guam appropriation bills, introduced in 1971, is not a realistic method of implementing the types of reorganization needed and otherwise authorized in section 9 (c), that the only practical solution to your problem is to propose both the reorganization, and the rearrangement of executive branch funds necessitated by such reorganization, in the next budget presentation to the Legislature.

Memorandum (Opinion)

REF: GOV-991308

To: The Honorable Carl T.C. Gutierrez
Governor of Guam

From: Attorney General

Subject: Reorganization of the Government of Guam Pursuant to Public Law No. 25-72, §20

Buenas! You have asked for information concerning the Governor's reorganization authority as follows:

REQUEST: What are the powers and limitations of the Legislature and the Governor in the reorganization of the Government of Guam pursuant to §20 of Public Law No. 25-72?

ANSWER: The Governor has the authority pursuant to the Organic Act to reorganize departments, agencies and other executive instrumentalities of the Government of Guam without legislative consent. However, the Legislature has the power to pass legislation not inconsistent with the Organic Act and other laws of the United States applicable to Guam including the power of monetary appropriation. Therefore, the Legislature creates public entities within limits and defines by legislation whether an agency or department is an executive instrumentality of the Government of Guam, and controls the size of the government by the power to restrict monetary appropriation.

Commonwealth Now!

Suite 2-200E, Judicial Center Bldg., 120 West O'Brien Drive, Hagåtña, Guam U.S.A. 96910

STATEMENT OF FACTS:

Among other things, Public Law No. 25-72 is an appropriations act purporting to provide by subsequent legislation, in cooperation with the administration and the executive branch, a bill to reduce the government of Guam by no less than fifty percent (50%) through a government wide reorganization. Roundtable discussions are mandated to produce legislation accomplishing the reorganizational purposes detailed in §20 within sixty days of the Act's effective date. The specific powers and duties of the Legislature and the executive are not effectively defined.

DISCUSSION:

The Organic Act functions as Guam's constitution and the Legislature may not pass laws inconsistent with the powers of each of the three branches of government. As limited by §1421a of the Organic Act, "the government of Guam shall consist of three branches, executive, legislative, and judicial." The separation of powers of these three branches is considered more strict under the Organic Act than under the U.S. Constitution. See, People v. Camacho, 1 Guam R. 501 (Sup. Ct. 1975).

Section 1423a of the Organic Act concerns the scope of the Legislature's authority and provides, in pertinent part, that "The legislative power of Guam shall extend to all rightful subjects of legislation not inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter and the laws of the United States applicable to Guam."

The Governor, on the other hand, as head of the executive branch, is vested with "[t]he executive power of Guam" and "shall have general supervision and control of all the departments, bureaus, agencies and other instrumentalities of the executive branch of the government of Guam." 42 U.S.C. §1422.

The executive power is the power to execute laws, that is, carry laws into effect, as distinguished from the power to make those laws, or to judge them. See, generally, 16 Am.Jur.2d Constitutional Law §303. In fact, however, the power to legislate or to make laws is generally considered "the most important of all the powers of government" and "has been characterized as the vital function which animates, directs, and controls the whole operation of civil authority." See, generally, 16 Am.Jur.2d Constitutional Law §318. Legislatures are limited only by the provisions of the constitution, and if no limitations exist, then "the legislative will is supreme and must be obeyed by all other departments of the government." See, generally, 16 Am.Jur.2d Constitutional Law §319.

With respect to the organization of the executive branch of the government of Guam, our Organic Act has specifically delegated to the Governor, as head of the executive branch, the following authority pursuant to §1422c(c), which is entitled "Reorganization":

The Governor shall, from time to time, examine the organization of the executive branch of the government of Guam, and shall determine and carry out such changes therein as are necessary to promote effective management and to execute faithfully the purposes of this chapter and the laws of Guam.

Thus, excluded from one of those "rightful subjects of legislation" is the Legislature's authority to pass legislation which would usurp the Governor's authority as provided for in §1422c(c). Hence, while the Guam Legislature may rightfully pass legislation to create instrumentalities of the government of Guam, and to create mandates for these government instrumentalities outlining their purposes or functions in a general sense, the Guam Legislature's authority does not extend to deciding how an executive branch agency may be better organized and to carrying out any changes to better organize the agency. The Legislature only determines whether an agency or department is an instrumentality of the executive branch of the government of Guam. See, e.g., Roberto v. Bordallo, 839 F.2d 573, 574 (1987); Laguana v. Guam Visitors Bureau, 725 F.2d 519, 521(1984).

The Legislature also does not have the power to require the Governor or any executive instrumentality of the government of Guam to obtain the Legislature's consent to reorganize said instrumentality or instrumentalities. In §12 of Public Law No. 20-65, the Legislature added §5302(a) to the Government Code of Guam (later recodified as 5 GCA §11103). Section 11103 requires legislative approval for any reorganization of a department, agency, or instrumentality of the government of Guam. In an Attorney General Opinion to the Director of the Department of Public Health and Social Services dated March 6, 1990 (Ref: PHSS 90-0191), we opined that §11103 violated the separation of powers doctrine because the Organic Act specifically delegates to the Governor, and not the Legislature, the authority to organize the executive branch. Thus, the Legislature may not encroach on the Governor's authority by requiring the Governor's reorganization plans to be submitted for legislative approval. Likewise, government agencies are not required to submit their reorganization plans for legislative approval. As we said in our prior opinion:

The executive power is always subject to check by the terms of the legislation that authorized it, and if that authority is exceeded, it is open to judicial review as well as the power of the (U.S.) legislature to modify or revoke the authority entirely. See e.g. INS v. Chadha, 103 S.Ct. 2764 (1983).

Attorney General of Guam Opinion PHSS 90-0191 dated March 6, 1990 at page 5.

The authority to reorganize the executive branch is not the same as the authority to create a separate agency of the government of Guam. The creation of agencies and instrumentalities of the government of Guam is strictly a legislative function. The Organic Act does not bestow upon the Governor the authority to create separate agencies or instrumentalities. Laguana v. Guam Visitors Bureau, 725 F.2d 519, 521(1984). The power to modify a public entity previously created by the Legislature is not the same as the power to create a new entity. The Governor has no authority to create a separate agency of the government of Guam by executive order. Roberto v. Calvo, Dist. Ct. (Judge Cristobal Duenas, 1986), aff'd. Roberto v. Bordallo, 839 F.2d 573, 574 (1987).

Once the legislature has created the executive agency or department, the Governor has exclusive authority to reorganize the departments or agencies in any manner that complies with the legislative purposes delineated in the legislation establishing the legislative mandate to the executive. However, the one clear qualification upon the reorganizational authority of the Governor is the merit system mandated by the Organic Act.¹ The civil service law in 6 GCA §4201 requires that classified employees may only be removed for cause, which limits both the executive and the Legislature if a reorganization affects an employee's pay or substantive duties.

Additionally, the Legislature may have concurrent authority over the functions of certain agencies such as the Department of Education and Guam's public school system pursuant to §1421g(b) of the Organic Act. This section states that the government of Guam shall provide an adequate public educational system, and to that end shall establish, maintain, and operate public schools according to the laws of Guam. Prior to 1986, the same section of the Organic Act read, "The Governor shall provide an adequate public educational system of Guam, and to that end shall establish, maintain and operate public schools at such places in Guam as may be necessary." [Emphasis added.] Superior Court of Guam Judge Tydingco-Gatewood, at one point, issued a decision under the current Organic Act section which states that the government of Guam, generically, shall provide an adequate educational system. The legislature had passed an elected school board statute, in Public Law No. 22-42, which was challenged by the executive and others. Judge Tydingco-Gatewood decided that the Department of Education was not a part of the Executive Branch of the government of Guam. See, Tainatongo v. Territorial Board of Education, Special Proceedings Case No. SP114-95, consolidated with Gutierrez, et al. v. Territorial Board of Education, et al., CV1383-95, Decision at page 15 (September 11, 1996). More recently, the Guam Legislature has placed the Department of Education directly under the Governor and, thereby, back into the Executive Branch, extinguishing the Board of Education. See, Public Law No. 25-03, §18 (1999). However, the Legislature could recreate a Board or Boards of Education at any time. Congressional legislative history does not indicate Congress intended for the Governor to have exclusive power over Guam's school system even prior to amendment of the Organic Act in 1986. See, e.g., Brown v. Civil Service Commission, 818 F.2d 706,709 (9th Cir.1987). However, the educational instrumentality must be in the government of Guam.

In Bordallo v. Baldwin, 634 F.2d 932 (9th Cir 1980), the Guam Legislature attempted to create a hospital board of trustees consisting of members chosen by private organizations whom the Governor was required to appoint. However, because the Organic Act gives the Governor the power to establish hospitals and a public health system, the court decided that if the Governor has no power to choose the members of the hospital board, then an executive function is being encroached upon by the Legislature, and any such law is inorganic as being violative of §1421g(a). Additionally, the Legislature may not limit the Governor's organic power to remove executive department heads as delineated in 42 USC §1422. Territorial Prosecutor v. Superior Court of Guam, 1983 WL 30224, at 6 (D. Guam A.D.1983).

Based upon §1423j of the Organic Act, the Guam Legislature has plenary or absolute power over appropriations, and it may attach conditions upon the expenditure of appropriated funds. Section 1423j(a) provides:

¹ 48 U.S.C. §1422c(a) provides, in pertinent part, "The legislature shall establish a merit system and, as far as practicable, appointments and promotions shall be made from within the service."
Case 1:01-cv-00041 Document 523 Filed 10/26/08 Page 16 of 31

Appropriations, except as otherwise provided in this chapter, and except such appropriations as shall be made from time to time by the Congress of the United States, shall be made by the legislature.²

See, also, Santos v. Calvo, 1982 W.L 10790 at 3 (D. Guam A.D. 1982).

The Legislature may determine and control the level of funding by appropriation, and it may refuse thereby to fund specific agency functions. Once an appropriation has been made for a specific purpose or function, however, the Legislature no longer has control over how the Governor determines to deliver the service or accomplish the function within the structure of the instrumentalities of the executive branch established by the Legislature.

Nevertheless, the Legislature may change the establishment of functions or purposes by legislation not inconsistent with the Organic Act. As the court indicated in Bordallo v. Balwin, supra at 934, the Legislature may determine whether a hospital shall exist at all, and how large it will be, and the size and qualifications for the governing body, but the Legislature may not remove the ultimate responsibility for governance of the hospital given to the Governor in the Organic Act.

Thus, the Governor has the prerogative to determine the organizational structure of the agencies and departments the Legislature has created. Additionally, the Governor has the organic power to restructure and reorganize the executive branch instrumentalities of the government of Guam to effectively and efficiently carry out the mandate of the legislature in creating them.

A reorganization has been defined by the Guam Legislature in 5 GCA §11103(b) as:

1. The transfer of a whole or any part of an agency, or of the whole or any part of the functions thereof, to the jurisdiction and control of any other agency;
2. The abolition of all or any part of the functions of any agency;
3. The consolidation or coordination of the whole or any part of the functions of any agency, or the whole or any part of any other agency or the functions thereof;
4. The consolidation or coordination of any part of any agency or the functions thereof with any other agency or the functions thereof;
5. The authorization of any non-elective officer to appoint any individual to perform any functions;
6. The abolition of the whole or any part of any agency which agency or part does not have, or upon the taking effect of a reorganization plan will not have, any function;

²48 U.S.C. §1423j(b) states in pertinent part... "If at the termination of the fiscal year the legislature shall have failed to pass appropriation bills providing for payments of the necessary current expenses of the government and meeting its legal obligations for the ensuing fiscal year, then the several sums appropriated in the last appropriation bills for the objects and purposes therein specified, so far as same may be applicable shall be deemed reappropriated, item by item." Comment: There is some question as to whether the three month budget in the current appropriations act is organic in light of this section.

October 19, 1999

7. The establishment of a new agency to perform the whole or any of the functions of an existing agency or agencies; or
8. The use of a person under contract to perform functions which regularly are performed or budgeted to be performed by employees appointed under the merit system.

Under this definition of reorganization, the Guam Legislature would have the power to determine whether an instrumentality of the government of Guam shall exist at all and as explained in Laguana, supra. However, the Governor may then reorganize such agencies and their functions pursuant to his Organic Act powers to reorganize the government from time to time. A realignment by the Governor, where he streamlines a department by reassigning personnel and functions without substantive changes, would not require coordination with the Legislature. See, Attorney General of Guam Opinion Ref: LEG 85-0106 dated February 4, 1985.

However, the Governor would not have realignment authority as to agencies outside the executive branch and the government of Guam for that matter.

For example, in addressing the Guam Visitors Bureau, the 9th Circuit held that the removal of the Guam Visitors Bureau from the Governor's control and supervision did not infringe upon the Governor's powers over executive instrumentalities of the government of Guam pursuant to the Organic Act. Bordallo v. Reyes, 763 F.2d 1098 (9th Cir. 1985). This is because the Legislature had created the Guam Visitors Bureau as a "public corporation" which was not a government entity.

On the other hand, when the Legislature created the Guam Telephone Authority, the Guam Power Authority, and the Guam Airport Authority, it specifically designated these agencies by law as instrumentalities of the government of Guam.

Certainly, the Legislature is not legally required to place an agency under executive supervision at all unless the agency's purposes or functions are specifically outlined or mandated as an executive function pursuant to the Organic Act. When an agency does have executive duties and functions, the legislature then must place it in the executive branch under the doctrine of separation of powers. The legislature cannot delegate such powers and then veto executive decisions or delegate executive power to a legislative agent as though the government entity thus created was an instrumentality of the legislative branch because the foundation of the Constitutional doctrine of separation of powers prohibits such control. See, Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority, et al. v. Citizens for the Abatement of Aircraft Noise, 111 S. Ct. 2298, 2311-2312 citing Springer v. Philippine Islands, 48 S.Ct. 480 (1928) and Bowsher v. Synar, 106 S.Ct. 3181, 3187 (1986).

CONCLUSION:

Since the Legislature has the power to withdraw mandates, change government purposes, and abolish agencies, the executive would be prudent in coordinating any defined "reorganization" with the Legislature. Such coordination would insure, at least in the short term, that the Legislature would not respond with a law abolishing an agency reorganized by the executive altogether or changing its mandate, purposes and functions. Even with the Governor's reorganization power, laws may need change regarding the specifics of a given function and duties. However, under the Organic Act (constitutional) doctrine of separation of powers specifically delineating three branches of the government of Guam, the legislature has a duty to designate any agency or department with governmental functions, that are executive in nature, as an instrument of the executive branch. Without coordination, the checks and balances of the Executive and Legislative Branches could result in a stalemate under the mandate of Public Law No. 25-72, §20 which reduces the government of Guam by no less than fifty percent, and could end up costing more in time than savings in money. Genuine cooperation between the legislative and executive branches, keeping the guidelines of the separation of powers doctrine in mind, could produce significant changes and improvements in the streamlining of the government, and a cost savings necessary for the survival of a viable government of Guam in our harsh economic times.

This opinion should be read together with my May 27, 1999 Memorandum Opinion entitled "Review of Public Law Nos. 24-327 and 25-03 Pertaining to Restriction of the Governor's Employment Authority for Executive Agencies", a copy of which I have attached for your review.

Subject: Reorganization of GovGuam Departments, Agencies or Instrumentalities

This memorandum is in response to your memorandum of January 20, 1987, in which you requested information on the following:

REQUEST NO. 1: Define "reorganization" as that term is used in GC §5300, added by P.L. 17-81:14.

ANSWER: See discussion.

REQUEST NO. 2: Does the moving of an employee from one division to another constitute a "reorganization"?

ANSWER: No, so long as such movement does not involve the transfer, consolidation or abolition of existing agency functions.

DISCUSSION

Public Law 17-81:14 added GC §§5300 and 5301 regarding government reorganizations. These provisions provide:

§5300. Any Reorganization Plan for a department, agency or instrumentality of the government of Guam which is proposed by the Governor or by a department, agency or instrumentality must have a public hearing at least thirty (30) days prior to the implementation of such plan. Public notice of such hearing, including publication in a newspaper of general circulation within the Territory and including written notice to each employee of the department, agency or instrumentality in which the plan is to be implemented shall be provided at least fourteen (14) calendar days prior to the holding of such hearing. Employees shall have full opportunity to review the proposed reorganization plan prior to the hearing.

§5301. No classified employee at the time a reorganization plan is adopted shall be removed from his or her position or downgraded as a result of any reorganization undertaken pursuant to the plan.

Although the Legislature has set forth statutory notice and hearing requirements as conditions precedent to the effective implementation of any government reorganization plan, it has failed to define the term "reorganization." "If a word that should be defined in a statute is not, then its commonly accepted meaning is applied." Sutherland Stat. Const. §47.07 (4th Ed.). An examination of the California statute on government reorganizations provides one such commonly accepted meaning of the term reorganization. California Government Code §12080(b) provides:

(b) "Reorganization" means:

(1) The transfer of the whole or any part of any agency, or of the whole or any part of the functions thereof, to the jurisdiction and control of any other agency; or

(2) The abolition of all or any part of the functions of any agency; or

(3) The consolidation or coordination of the whole or any part of any agency, or of the whole or any part of the functions thereof, with the whole or any part of any other agency or the functions thereof; or

(4) The consolidation or coordination of any part of any agency or the functions thereof with any other part of the same agency or the functions thereof; or

(5) The authorization of any nonelective officer to delegate any of his functions; or

(6) The abolition of the whole or any part of any agency which agency or part does not have, or upon the taking effect of a reorganization plan will not have, any functions.

(7) The establishment of a new agency to perform the whole or any part of the functions of an existing agency or agencies.

While we would prefer to see the Guam Legislature define the term "reorganization" by statute, until it does so we believe that the above provision may be used as a guide to the meaning of the term reorganization for purposes of GC §§5300 and 5301.

February 25, 1967

In essence, the following are the kinds of changes which, when proposed by the Governor or by a department, agency or instrumentality, should be assumed to constitute a reorganization and trigger the notice and hearing requirements of §5300:

1. The transfer of any part of an agency or of any agency functions to another agency.
2. The consolidation of any part of an agency with any other part of that or another agency.
3. The consolidation of any agency functions.
4. The abolition of all existing functions of any agency or part thereof.
5. The creation of a new agency to perform any or all functions of an existing agency.

Changes, then, which affect existing agency structure or functions probably should be regarded as reorganizations for purposes of §5300. However, a minor change such as moving an employee from one division to another, where such change does not involve the transfer, consolidation or abolition of existing agency functions, should not be considered to be a §5300 reorganization. DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR
OFFICE OF TERRITORIES

Hon. Manuel F. L. Guerrero
Governor of Guam
Agaña, Guam

DEC 30 1965

Dear Governor Guerrero:

We enclose herewith an opinion of December 15, 1965 of the Acting Assistant Solicitor, Territories, on some of the legal questions raised by your letter of September 29, 1965. On the basis of this opinion, and with specific reference to the usual form of appropriations of the Guam Legislature for specific departments of your government, it is clear that you cannot, in the case of lump sum appropriations, transfer functions and the funds to perform those functions from place to place, because you have not been authorized to expend any particular portion of such lump sum appropriations for any particular function, nor, following repeal of section 6113.2, do you have general authority to transfer any portion of appropriations from one department to another.

If the Guam Legislature were to enact appropriations bills in the detailed form that frequently characterizes appropriation acts of the Virgin Islands Legislature, then, as the opinion indicates, the function and the identifiable funds for such function may be transferred from one department to another; in that event, the funds expended for a particular function still will be exactly as specified by the Legislature. Or, if an appropriation act is concerned only with a particular board or independent agency and the funds for its operation, we see no objection, in view of the Acting Assistant Solicitor's opinion, to reorganization that places the independent board or agency under the administrative supervision of another department, provided again expenditures for the operation of such independent board or agency do not exceed the appropriation authorized by the legislature, and no part of such appropriated funds are expended for any other purpose.

To simplify further, let us outline some hypothetical transfer problems:

- (1) Department A and Department B each have received their appropriations in a lump sum. Because of the importance of programs under the jurisdiction of Department B, the Governor would like to transfer some funds from a less essential program of Department A to the more urgently needed program of Department B. Since repeal of section 6113.2 of the Guam Code (pursuant to the holding in the Foranillo case that item veto authority may not be used to veto such repeal), the Governor has no authority to effect the transfer of funds.
- (2) Department A has received a total appropriation of $1 million to perform functions X, Y and Z, which are listed in the appropriation act by description only. The Governor proposes to transfer function Y to Department B and to authorize expenditures of $200,000 for this purpose. This also the Governor may not do, because the Legislature did not authorize expenditure of $200,000 specifically for function Y. Conceivably, such expenditure might be less than $200,000 if performed in Department A by the personnel assigned to perform functions X and Z.
- (3) The appropriation act for Department A reads as follows:
 Function X, 10 persons, appropriation $300,000;
 Function Y, 7 persons, appropriation $200,000;
 Function Z, 15 persons, appropriation $500,000

The Governor wishes to transfer function Y to Department B and spend $200,000 for the performance of function Y. The reorganization may be effected pursuant to section 9 (e) of the Organic Act and the seven employees thereafter will be "detailed" to Department B and supervised by the head of that Department. Their salaries and any other expenditures for the performance of their function (supplies, equipment, travel) will be paid from funds appropriated to Department A for the performance of function Y. Since there is no authority for the transfer of appropriated funds from department to department, the disbursing officer of Department A would retain control of the funds.

Hypothetical (3) thus would permit the type of reorganization, with funds retained by the transferor agency, discussed in the last paragraph of your September 29 letter. It must be emphasized, however, that this type of reorganization becomes possible only if the original appropriation act identifies the function and the funds authorized for performance of the function in adequate detail. If, because of the single item form of Guam appropriation bills, hypothetical (3) is not a realistic method of implementing the types of reorganization needed and otherwise authorized in section 9 (c), then the only practical solution to your problem is to propose both the reorganization, and the rearrangement of executive branch funds necessitated by such reorganization, in the next budget presentation to the Legislature.

Sincerely yours,

(Sgd.) Mrs. Ruth G. Van Cleave

Title 48. Territories and Insular Possessions

Chapter 8A. Guam (Refs & Annos)

Subchapter II. The Executive Branch

→ § 1422c. Executive agencies and instrumentalities

(a) Appointment of heads; establishment of merit system; Civil Service Commission

The Governor shall, except as otherwise provided in this chapter or the laws of Guam, appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the legislature, all heads of executive agencies and instrumentalities. The legislature shall establish a merit system and, as far as practicable, appointments and promotions shall be made in accordance with such merit system. The Government of Guam may by law establish a Civil Service Commission to administer the merit system. Members of the commission may be removed as provided by the laws of Guam.

(b) Powers and duties of officers

All officers shall have such powers and duties as may be conferred or imposed on them by law or by executive regulation of the Governor not inconsistent with any law.

(c) Reorganization

The Governor shall, from time to time, examine the organization of the executive branch of the government of Guam, and shall determine and carry out such changes therein as are necessary to promote effective management and to execute faithfully the purposes of this chapter and the laws of Guam.

(d) Continuation in office of incumbents

All persons holding office in Guam on August 1, 1950 may, except as otherwise provided in this chapter, continue to hold their respective offices until their successors are appointed and qualified.

GOVERNMENT REORGANIZATION

- § 11101. Reorganization: Public Hearing.
- § 11102. Employment Security.
- § 11103. Legislative Approval for Reorganizations;
Definitions.

§ 11101. Reorganization: Public Hearing.

Any Reorganization Plan for a department, agency or instrumentality of the government of Guam which is proposed by the Governor or by a department, agency or instrumentality must have a public hearing at least thirty (30) days prior to the implementation of such plan. Public notice of such hearing, including publication in a newspaper of general circulation within the Territory and including written notice to each employee of the department, agency or instrumentality in which the plan is to be implemented shall be provided at least fourteen (14) calendar days prior to the holding of such hearing. Employees shall have full opportunity to review the proposed reorganization plan prior to the hearing.

increases the number of employees shall be necessary prior to a request to the Legislature to appropriate funds for the additional positions.

(b) Definition. For purposes of this Chapter, reorganization means:

(1) The transfer of the whole or any part of any agency, or of the whole or any part of the functions thereof, to the jurisdiction and control of any other agency;

(2) The abolition of all or any part of the functions of any agency;

(3) The consolidation or coordination of the whole or any part of any agency, or of the whole or any part of the functions thereof, with the whole or any part of any other agency or the functions thereof;

(4) The consolidation or coordination of any part of any agency or the functions thereof with any other part of the same agency or the functions thereof;

(5) The authorization of any non-elective officer to appoint any individual to perform any of his functions;

(6) The abolition of the whole or any part of any agency which agency or part does not have, or upon the taking effect of a reorganization plan will not have, any function;

(7) The establishment of a new agency to perform the whole or any of the functions of an existing agency or agencies; or

(8) The use of a person under contract to perform functions which regularly are performed or budgeted to be performed by employees appointed under the merit system.
